

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A wall-concealed water service box includes a case that has a built-in flexible hose connecting a soft tube with a water outlet and a valve plate, wherein one end of the flexible hose connects and fastens with the soft tube protected by a corrugated tube through a reducing socket; the other end of the flexible hose connects and fastens with the water outlet; a friction projection and a maintenance hole are formed on the valve plate; an rim member is placed around the maintenance hole so that it may be opened and closed with an access plate, and the reducing socket at which the connection tube of the water outlet is inserted and fixed is fastened and fixed with the access plate through a socket insertion hole and a latch is formed on a part of the access plate and also fastened with the flexible hose to become one body.